MESSAGE FROM A LEADER

Khalid Bin Abdulaziz Alshuwaier

Chief Executive Officer

GIG - Saudi

Leadership Journey

My career in the insurance sector has not merely been a sequence of roles and positions; it has been a journey filled with challenges and lessons that shaped my vision for leading Gulf Insurance Group in Saudi Arabia. Throughout these years, I have learned that true success is not achieved by numbers alone, but through discipline, resilience, and building a team that believes in the purpose of the organization it belongs to.

Since joining GIG - Saudi, I set a clear objective: to present an advanced model of innovation, reliability, and service simplicity, and to contribute effectively to the development of the Saudi insurance market in a manner that reflects the trust of our clients and partners.

This goal would not have been possible without our methodology, which is firmly rooted in GIG's values of excellence, customer-first, and team spirit values that form the strong foundation from which we embark on every stage of our growth.

Achievements of the Previous Phase: Real Impact... and a Clearer Vision for the Future

- Enhancing Financial Performance and Ensuring Sustainable Growth

During the previous phase, we focused on improving underwriting quality and strengthening the performance of our insurance and investment portfolio. This contributed to upgrading our credit rating to "A" by the global rating agency Standard & Poor's, with a stable outlook. We also achieved balanced growth across key sectors such as medical insurance, motor insurance, and P&C insurance. These efforts significantly reinforced market confidence in our capabilities and financial sustainability.

- Advancing Digital Infrastructure and Simplifying Services

Digital transformation has been and continues to be a core pillar of our strategy. We enhanced our technical systems, improved the digital customer journey, increased claims-processing efficiency, strengthened integrations with government entities, and automated our operational processes. As a result, our customer services have become simpler, faster, and more transparent.

- Empowering National Talent

At GIG, we believe that investing in people is the greatest asset any organization can achieve. Therefore, we focused on developing young leaders, launching internal training programs, and enabling employees to participate in decision-making. To me, the team is not an auxiliary component... it is "The Institution Itself".

- Strengthening Partnerships and Building a Stronger Presence

We expanded our network of partners across government entities and the private sector, and reinforced our market presence through strategic partnerships, active collaboration with regulatory bodies, and initiatives that contribute to developing and elevating the insurance community.

- Enhancing Customer Experience

Our strategy was clear: "The Customer Comes First". Accordingly, we focused on increasing overall satisfaction, improving response speed, simplifying processes, and developing after-sales services assuring a smoother, higher-quality experience throughout every stage of the customer journey.

A Vision for the Future... Towards Simpler and Smarter Insurance

The future, for us, is not a challenge to be feared, but an opportunity we look forward to with confidence. We are entering a phase in which the sector will witness significant development, starting with the adoption of artificial intelligence technologies and innovative products, and extending to the modernization of advanced institutional systems.

Our vision is built on providing more flexible and innovative insurance products and solutions, through a fully integrated digital customer journey, enhancing the level of integration with our partners, and reinforcing trust and credibility, in addition to investing in data analytics and future expansion.

We believe that GIG - Saudi has all the capabilities needed to be one of the leading entities shaping the future of the insurance sector. We move forward towards a tomorrow with the spirit of one team, unwavering ambition, and a firm belief that every challenge is another step towards greater success.

Get to Know

Yahya Salman AlKhater
Head of Digital | Technology &
Transformation Visionary
GIG - Saudi

Could you introduce yourself and explain how your journey has shaped your approach to leadership?

I believe every professional walks a bridge between who we were and who we dare to become. My career began not in comfort, but in complexity dealing with risk, data, markets, and systems, long before the world romanticized "digital."

Early in banking (in 2006) followed with Insurance (in 2011), I discovered a world where technology wasn't just an efficiency tool, and it was the engine of fairness, pricing accuracy, protection, and trust. I gradually shifted from technical roles into leadership, moving through risk, pricing, underwriting, product development, digital operations, and enterprise technology.

Today, as Head of Digital at Gulf Insurance Group, Saudi Arabia, I don't simply manage digital processes. I champion a vision: digital as a profit powerhouse, not a support function. We are shaping a business model where digital, product, and customer strategy move as one.

Every chapter of my career taught me that transformation is not a system upgrade, it is a promise to elevate human experience, sharpen strategy, and redefine what is possible in our industry.

What makes your digital strategy different from traditional transformation approaches?

Traditional digital strategies "digitize" what already exists. Our strategy reimagines what does not exist yet. We moved digital beyond service portals and apps screens. We built a business engine that generates measurable revenue, reduces cost, and drives portfolio quality based on the market trends.

Digital at GIG-Saudi means:

- Organization Culture adaptation of digital transformation as business profit marketing center. It starts top management empowerment with the aid of the new technologies, enabling and empowering the digital adaption.
- Automated customer experiences with Digital first product innovation using AI technologies
- Predictive underwriting and pricing intelligence
- Data linked sales ecosystems

How do you balance ambition in AI with ethics, cybersecurity, and human trust?

AI is the most powerful force of our generation but only when it follows three principles, to Serve, Protect, and Empower people. We invest heavily in secure system architecture, fraud intelligence, privacy governance, and incident readiness. But our most important safeguard is cultural: AI is never used to replace accountability.

We introduce AI carefully:

- Behavioral prediction enhances insurance ecosystem but never discriminates.
- Automation improves experience but never denies transparency.
- Recommendation engines personalize journeys but never manipulate decisions.

"Technology without ethics is chaos"

The world of insurance is evolving fast. How do you adapt?

The insurance industry is no longer about selling coverage, it is about predicting risk, preventing loss, and strengthening societies. Regulators demand transparency, customers demand immediacy, and partners demand collaboration.

"So we don't adapt reactively, we design proactively."

The world is shifting from static policies to dynamic protection, from data stored in systems to data driving intelligence, and from claims after losses to intervention before losses.

GIG - ALGERIA

My Journey

My name is Radia Ferhi,

Three years ago, I was a young graduate with nothing but a master's degree in hand and a heart full of dreams. I didn't know where life would take me, only that I was ready to give my best. That's when GIG ALGERIA came into my life, through the Campus GIG program.

I joined the company as an intern, not knowing exactly what to expect. What I found was much more than a simple internship. I had the incredible opportunity to be trained by teams from all departments, with weekly follow-ups by both the CEO and Deputy CEO. I didn't only learn about insurance. I also learned how to grow as a person, how to speak in meetings and how to handle challenges. These were lessons that no classroom could have taught me.

During that same year, I took a big step and applied for the doctoral program in marketing. Thousands of candidates applied, but only three were accepted. I was lucky to be one of them and I succeeded on my first try.

After my internship, I joined the marketing team, which had always been my goal. A supportive team that welcomed me and gave me space to grow. Little by little, I took on more responsibilities, including managing the company's social media and working on important marketing projects.

At the same time, I grew as a researcher. I published my first scientific article, spoke at national and international conferences and achieved one of my biggest dreams: Presenting my research at the University of Cambridge a legendary institution that hosted Isaac Newton, Charles Darwin, and more than 120 Nobel Prize winners.

Looking back, these past three years were not just a professional journey. They were a life journey filled with challenges, opportunities, and above all, meaningful human connections.

Zaid Saadah: Daily Challenges in the Workplace

Work-related pressure and negative energy are sometimes a natural part of our professional lives. Handling them wisely is one of the most important steps for continuity and productivity. When I feel stressed out or experience negative energy, I avoid making decisions or rushing into decisions for a short period so that the decision comes from rationality rather than emotions or impulsiveness. I usually seek to take a short break from interaction with colleagues at work. Additionally, playing sports regularly, which require physical and mental effort, has a significant impact on making you feel better.

Youth Communication & Encouragement Skills:

I take pride in being a Guardian of Young Minds, especially when engaging with teenagers who need someone to truly listen, understand, and guide them. I discovered this talent during my volunteering sessions in schools, where I realized how deeply young people need safe, supportive communication and genuine encouragement. My passion lies in creating a space where they can express themselves freely, feel heard, and receive the motivation they often lack.

Through meaningful conversations and structured guidance, I help them navigate the challenges they face in their environment whether social, emotional, or academic. I also organize and lead sessions that focus on essential life skills, including how to think positively, how to plan for their future, and how to manage their time effectively. These sessions empower them to build resilience, improve decision-making, and develop a forward-looking mindset.

In addition, I encourage them to invest their energy and potential in the present moment, helping them understand the value of taking small, consistent steps toward personal growth. By combining emotional support with practical
